About International Summit for Packaging Industry (ISPI)

In the recent days, it is observed that few of the major socio economic factors like globalization, liberalization, increase of literacy resulting into the increasing of health consciousness, increase of purchasing power capacity due to increase of dual income group, consumerism, increase of more working women leads to increase of demand for ready to eat food, booming of retail market etc., have caused to gear up the increase of demand for the consumption of packaging materials. This has led to increase the production capacity by considering the innovative processing technology and also to develop the efficient packaging materials in terms of enhanced mechanical properties, barrier properties, optical properties and thus to upgrade the functional properties of packaging materials to meet the requirements of the international market.

The main objective of the two days International Summit is to highlight the latest trends and technologies of various packaging materials, conversion technologies, packaging machineries with automation to increase the productivity and to reduce the wastage and also to meet the requirement of the packaging user industry to satisfy the demands of modern consumers. The various topics will be covered by the galaxy of speakers from India and overseas who would deliver the presentations around the theme.

Theme of ISPI: Packaging - The Growth Driver

The theme of the Conference is "Packaging – The Growth Driver". The theme was chosen by considering the fact that the packaging plays a vital role for the growth of economy of the country. The economic growth of the country is largely effected by the packaging industry in terms of high volume of production of packaging raw materials, its conversion into different forms of packaging, the usage of different forms of packaging by the user industries with the help of innovative packaging machinery. Considering this aspect, this particular theme is found to be more appropriate in the today's context.
